

Gean Brown, RN, OCN
Clinical Manager
Middlesex Hospital Cancer Center
Middletown, Connecticut

Gean Brown is an oncology nurse, representing the Lung Cancer Alliance in Connecticut. Ms. Brown has been an advocate for lung cancer and has focused much of her career in the field of lung cancer. She has advocated for lung cancer research on the hill in Washington, and testified in Hartford on lung cancer screening.

Gean is an oncology and chemotherapy/biotherapy certified nurse currently pursuing a Master's Degree in Nursing Administration. She has a strong background in outpatient medical oncology, and she currently works as the Clinical Manager and Lung Screening Coordinator at the Middlesex Hospital Cancer Center in Middletown, CT. She oversees the Cancer Center's oncology nurse navigators, as well as the Surgical Alliance.

Ms. Brown's experience extends beyond the clinic; she has been a presenter at The Academy of Oncology Nurse Navigators, a committee chair for the "Facing Lung Cancer" event at Middlesex Hospital Cancer Center, an organizer for the Shine a Light on Lung Cancer National Vigil, and a lecturer on oncology at the Middlesex Hospital Cancer Center. She has held several board positions in the Central Connecticut's Oncology Nursing Society, and is a member of the Academy of Oncology Nurse Navigators.